

Spurning:

Í framhaldi af samtali mínu við námsráðgjafa send ég þér beiðni um upplýsingar um Leikstjórnarnám í evrópu með áherslu á england og skandinavíu.

Ég hef lokið 2 1/2 árum í menntaskóla, framhaldsprófi í klassískum söng og er með 8 ára starfsreynslu úr leikhúsunum.

Svör:

Danmörk:

Inge Langberg Kjaer \(Euroguidance, Guidenet\) ilk@ciriusmail.dk

Date: 30 April 2007 09:46 AM

I suggest to have a look at www.ug.dk (our education and guidance portal). One quick search on the word "instruktør" gave the following results (and a lot more that might be interesting for him as well, but he can check that himself):

Dramatikeruddannelsen: http://www.ug.dk/Uddannelse.aspx?article_id=udb-dramatikerudd

Sceneinstruktør: http://www.ug.dk/Uddannelse.aspx?article_id=udb-sceneinstruktoer

But a good command of Danish would be required.

Bretland:

Suzanne Towler suzanne.towler@careersb.co.uk

Date: 30 April 2007 11:48 AM

Drama schools here in the UK offer 1 or 2 year professional diplomas in stage management and technical theatre.

The National Council for Drama Training (NCDT) has details of accredited courses on its website - <http://www.ncdt.co.uk/acourse.asp>

A couple of other websites which may also help your young person are:

<http://www.artscouncil.org.uk/links/index.php>

The Stage Management Association -

<http://www.stagemanagementassociation.co.uk>

Svíþjóð:

Nina Ahlroos nina.ahlroos@programkontoret.se

Date: 02 May 2007 02:09 PM

Your client may find something of interest among the theatre/drama courses given at Swedish Folk High Schools:

http://www.folkhogskola.nu/page/Courses/TAB/LongContent/LONGCATEGORY_ID/39/teater%2Fdrama.htm

That is if it's OK with Swedish as language of instruction...

At Dramatiska Institutet, a University College of Film, Radio, Television and Theatre in Stockholm, admission to the Film- and Theatre Programmes takes place every second year; <http://www.draminst.se/start/inenglish/>.

However, there is fierce competition and they require a complete secondary school education.